Cosmopolitan Films Tomorrow To Set International Day Mood

Three films on foreign countries will be shown tomorrow as a part of the International Day activities sponsored by Cosmopolitan Club. Africa, China and Europe will be the topics of the films to be shown in LA11 starting at noon. An exhibit of foreign articles and art has been on display in the Lodge this week. It was prepared by Cosmopolitan Club for International Day.

An International Day dance will be in the Lodge tomorrow night from 9-12. Kurt Weis, president of Cosmopolitan Club, said that over $200 in prizes donated by local merchants will be given during the dance. A 15-minute floor show featuring talent from different countries is also planned. Tickets will be sold in the Lodge tomorrow from 2 to 4 p.m. and at the door for $1.50 a couple.

MSU Masquers Will Present Classic 'Our Town' in U Theater February 7-9

Thornton Wilder's great American classic, "Our Town," will be presented as the next major production of the Montana Masquers drama club in the University Theater, Feb. 7-9. The play, which will tour Montana during spring vacation, includes the following persons in lead roles: Ron Engle, Roger DeBour, Eileen Gallagher, Ione Hutchings, Larry Boag, Mike Fallon and Melinda Wilson.

Others in speaking roles are Delbert Unruh, Helen McKeague, Lester Hankinson, Susan Sather, George Baldwin and Gene Buck. Those having non-speaking parts are Noel Young, Bill Lensing, Thomas Hall, Larry Empereur, John Pickering, Eileen Corr, Patsy Maxson, Lynne Axley, Corliss Nickerson, Kristy Towe and Sandra Harris.

Firman H. Brown, chairman of the drama department, is director and Richard H. James, drama instructor, is technical director. Sarah James will be costume designer.

"Our Town" is a play in which a New Hampshire town is the hero and plot of the play.

Although this novelty has been produced several times, "Our Town" was a startling innovation in the modern theater when it first appeared.

Speech Students Competing in Meet

Twelve members of the MSU Speech Department left yesterday for the Treasure State Tournament at Montana State College in Bozeman today, tomorrow and Saturday.

Two senior debate teams and one junior team will represent MSU. Stewart Miller, Phil Hamilton, Mike Heydort and Dan Wick are the senior debaters. Junior debaters are Tom Lehrkind and Ron Randall.

John Passmore will participate in the Lincoln-Douglas debate. Presenting oral interpretations of literature will be Patsy Maxson, Nina Poulis, Phil Hamilton, and Dan Wick.

Extemporaneous speeches will be made by Stewart Miller and Dan Wick. Mike Heydort and John Passmore will present original oratories.

The nine student speakers were accompanied by Ralph Y. McGinnis, chairman of the speech department; Dan Witt, speech instructor; and Duane Pederson, graduate assistant.

Freshman Coed Identifies Prowler

Ex-Convict Admits Disturbing Three Women's Living Groups

By MARY ELLEN MYRENE

A 28-year-old construction laborer admitted yesterday to creating disturbances early Tuesday morning in three women's living groups, and for striking a freshman woman in her room in Brantly Hall.

Zoel Snow, a parolee who served five years for burglary in Butte, admitted the offense after he was identified by the woman Tuesday night.

According to Robert J. Riley, Deputy County Attorney, marks on Snow's hands and a torn shirt spotted with blood pointed to the man's guilt.

Snow, who has been on parole for one year, was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment in 1957 for a burglary in Butte. In this incident, two women were severely beaten.

According to Deputy Riley, Snow is being held at the Missoula County Jail on a 30-day charge of disturbing the peace, the result of an incident Monday night, before his entrance into the living groups.

Snow entered the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority house on Gerald Ave. through an open back door about 4 a.m., according to Police Capt. James G. Lamoreaux. He attempted to enter the locked apartment of Mrs. H. E. Rimel, housemother, but left hurriedly when he heard her telephoning police.

Later, at 5:30 a.m., Snow climbed the fire escape at the Alpha Phi House and tried to force open a third floor window, but ran away quickly when the sound of a falling piece of metal awoke some of the women.

At 6 a.m. after doors were unlocked at Brantly Hall, freshman women's dormitory, he entered a first floor room and struck a coed before being scared off again by students who had been aroused.

Riley said that completion of the charges against Snow will be filed after all the evidence has been considered.

Choral Union Wants Students To Participate

Choral Union, open to all students in the University, will admit members this quarter without auditions, Joseph Mussulman, director of choral organizations, announced.

Membership is open on an interest basis this quarter to encourage the greatest possible number of students to take part in the coming performance of Johannes Brahms' "Requiem." The work will be presented April 28, as part of the regular Civic Symphony Orchestra's season of concerts.

This choral work will be sung by the combined MSU choral organizations, together with the Civic Symphony Choral, and accompanied by the Missoula Civic Symphony Orchestra. Lloyd Oakland, chairman of the department of music, will conduct the performance.

"Of all the great works in choral repertoire, perhaps none is so gratifying to sing," Mr. Mussulman said. "We guarantee that every participant will find it a memorable experience to sing this magnificent work under the direction of so sensitive and inspiring a conductor."

The Choral Union rehearses every Tuesday evening from 7 until 9 in M218. In addition, the women rehearse separately from 5 to 6 p.m. on Tuesday, and the men from 5 to 6 p.m. on Wednesday.

The School of Fine Arts presents a major choral work with orchestra accompaniment every other year.

Students Invited

Students are invited to suggest visiting lecturers in all fields to Prof. Vedder M. Gilbert in the English department.

Central Board Passes Bill To Raise Kaimin Salaries

Central Board last night unanimously passed an amended motion to raise the salaries of the Montana Kaimin sports editor, associate editors and photographer.

The action raised the pay of the sports editor from $35 to $40 a month, the associate editors' pay from $15 to $25 a month and the photographer's pay from $25 to $35 a month.

An amendment proposed by Dave Browman was approved making the raises retroactive to Jan. 1.

The raises will be added to the Kaimin's next budget. Until this budget is set the money will come from the Kaimin surplus fund.

ASMSU President Ed Whitelaw said that it may be necessary to have another vote concerning a new Student Union Building.

"We aren't sure what it was that was said in the last vote," Whitelaw said.

He indicated that he felt the students were not necessarily opposed to the building as such, but may have voted against some of its provisions.

Whitelaw suggested that Central Board give serious thought to the possibility of submitting some sort of modified proposal to the students before the state legislature adjourns.

A letter to MSU's student government from the Committee for Student Aid was read by Whitelaw.

The letter contained an invitation to MSU to approve a resolution that tax exemptions for self-supporting college students be passed by Congress.

The committee, initiated by three students at the Milwaukee Institute of Technology in Wisconsin, is attempting to gain enough public support to bring the resolution to the attention of Congress.

The resolution calls for an exemption of at least $1,800 in addition to that presently allowed for full-time unmarried students, and an exemption of at least $2,400 for married students.

The committee said the exemptions would encourage more high school students to go on to college and would enable married students to continue in college.

The letter listed five Wisconsin schools that had approved the resolution through their student governments and the names of three Wisconsin congressmen who support the proposal.

Central Board took no action on the resolution but Whitelaw said that it might be worth participation.

In other business Central Board tabled until next week voting on the new Venture policy.

Khrushchev Speech May Make Wider Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. experts figured that Soviet Premier Khrushchev's speech in East Berlin yesterday will harden the Soviet rift with Red China, even though Khrushchev didn't go as far as some had expected he would.

U.S. authorities said Khrushchev appeared to be restating, with considerable firmness, the position in the dispute with Peking over how communism should proceed. Moscow contends the Chinese policy would bring on a nuclear war causing vast destruction to the Communist countries as well as to the West.

As for Khrushchev's proposal to convert West Berlin into a U.N.-guaranteed free city, Washington officials saw no basic change in the Kremlin position.

Bomb Explodes at Shell

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP) — Saboteurs set off a bomb at a Shell Oil Co. installation early yesterday amid indications pro-Castro elements have marked this oil center for a fresh wave of terrorism.

The bomb temporarily knocked out 12 wells but damage was slight and production was resumed within an hour, officials said. The saboteurs escaped.

Strike Bills Introduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., introduced bills yesterday to outlaw strikes against defense facilities and to give the government a new weapon to deal with transport strikes such as the current East Coast-Gulf Coast dock workers' strike.

The defense facilities measure, McClellan told the Senate in a speech, would prohibit strikes or other work stoppages at missile sites and other defense facilities.

Powers Granted Divorce

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Francis Gary Powers, former U2 pilot who served a prison term in the Soviet Union, was granted a divorce yesterday.

Powers charged his wife with habitual intoxication and cruelty.

Mrs. Powers filed a countersuit and told the jury that her husband was "not the same" since his return from a Soviet prison.

Possibly Progress

A bill has been introduced into the state Senate which would have the name of the University changed and would set up a single administrative entity for the six units of the University system.

Montana State University would become the University of Montana (the name of the University 30 years ago) and Montana State College would become Montana State University. Attached to the University of Montana unit would be Western Montana College at Dillon and Eastern Montana College at Billings. Attached to the Bozeman unit would be Northern Montana College at Havre and the Montana School of Mines at Butte.

The bill was introduced into the state Senate by Democratic majority leader W. A. Groff. The bill expands Gov. Tim Babcock's recommendations in his implementation of the Master Plan.

The Master Plan, completed last fall, after more than two years of study, seeks to establish a co-ordinated high education program for Montana and to have the best possible program at a cost Montanans can afford.

It seems somewhat unnecessary, confusing and expensive to have the names of the two leading units of the University system changed. However, the rest of the plan should be and probably will be adopted (with some modifications.)

Montana's higher education has been the center of controversy the last two years, even more so than it usually is. The University suffered last year from a large number of faculty resignations. Northern Montana College has been a storm center of controversy which has resulted in the resignation, January 1, of the president of that college, L. O. Brockmann.

The vital part of the bill introduced by Sen. Groff, resulting from the extensive Master Plan study, is the economies that will be realized in running the state's system of higher education. The plan would reduce the priorities for money, buildings and curricula from six units to two. It would allow for easier appropriation of money.

Sen. Groff also instituted a Purchasing Department study for all state agencies. Elimination of waste and duplication for the University system would be a hoped for result of such a study.

Placing the six units into two groups is logical. NMC and the School of Mines are engaged in related fields of science with the Bozeman unit. Western and Eastern are both mainly concerned with education in which MSU is also engaged.

Sen. Groff emphasized that his bill does not de-emphasize any institution, a worry of some of the smaller state units. NMC is particularly plagued with a complex that it will be reduced to a junior college. This will not happen if the bill passes and this is as it should be.

The bill introduced by Sen. Groff should be studied carefully by the state legislators. The entire effort in Montana higher education could be greatly affected for better or for worse depending on what is done with the plan.—JD.

Student Wonders About Lemp's Reason For Recent Orbiting in Clothes Dryer

To the Editor:

Many of us take for granted the host of directions we are traveling; the several motions we are involuntarily going through by simply dwelling on the planet Earth. Our "Milky Way" galaxy is whirling through space at a tremendous rate of speed as it follows its spiral path. The earth itself is following a rather helical orbit around our sun, as it also spins hurriedly on its axis. Even this very axis is unstable and wobbles like a half-spent top.

Recently another whirling motion was added to this list by an MSU student as he spun himself dry in a local laundromat. This new feat of potential travel (had the drying cylinder been rolling on the ground it would have travelled approximately three miles) causes me to wonder what has been gained. One might think it was not a frivolous stunt, for it rated 4 1/2 column inches in one of the local newspapers; and on the front page, too.

Perhaps our courageous student wishes to become immortalized in Mr. Ripley's famous column. Possibly he was never allowed to ride the merry-go-round as a child and is now getting his thrills. Maybe this ex-Peppermint Prince simply wanted everyone to see his favorite sweatshirt and dizzy smile (anyone would be dizzy after 35 minutes in a dryer) and give his crew members a chance to play radio and even to get uncouth by telling "all the folks out there" about the results of nausea. (Say—why not install an automatic dryer next to every shower. No need for towels: just turn the machine on, and crawl in.)

I find it rather strange, in fact even repulsive, that a person finds it necessary to go this far out of his way just to be noticed. Our society is plagued with the "status seeker" who is typified by this example of going to such extremes to be recognized. In the future, I hope our orbiting hero will refrain from spinning, and just stick to twisting.

Legislative Notebook

By JAMES DULLENTY

A speedy session of the Montana Legislature is under way with the introduction of far more legislation than had been introduced at this time, last year.

The bill of most interest to University students so far, is the bill to re-name the Bozeman and Missoula units of the University system and to centralize the administrative part of the system.

Changing the name of the University units has brought mixed reaction. Leon Johnson, dean of the Graduate School at Montana State College, presented the case for the name change. Robert T. Pantzer, financial vice-president of MSU, told the House Education Committee that a name change would create more confusion than now exists.

One factor in the name change not to be overlooked is the cost to the University to issue new diplomas to 14,500 alumni at a cost of $3.10 each.

Among other proposals before the Legislature or in preparation to be introduced is a bill to outlaw the use of artificial light when hunting at night. The only exception is for raccoon hunters during the season on this animal.

State Sen. Robert Durkee, D-Hill, said his committee to study the State Purchasing Department may give that department the authority to purchase liquor instead of the State Liquor Control Board.

A bill sponsored by Sen. Earl Moritz, R-Fergus, would create a licensing board for certified public accountants in Montana. Licenses are now issued by the University of Montana which gives the examinations and grants the diplomas.

It seems that another go at eliminating the constitutional status of justice of the peace in Montana is under way. This proposal was narrowly defeated last November by Montana voters. The bill's sponsor, Sen. Hugh C. Cumming, D-Granite, said that a better selling job was needed this time.

One of the bills in the House calls for a Sunday closing law. This proposal, recently held constitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court, was called by one lobbyist, the Five-R Bill. He explained the bill was designed to promote reason, rest, recreation, relaxation and religion.

Another bill would make the counties stand the expense of the recount of votes for the losing candidate for the Legislature in close races.

A picture that used to hang in the Biological Science Building at MSU is now causing considerable controversy in the Capital. Edgar S. Paxson's controversial painting, "Custer's Last Stand," has been valued at $50,000 by the Paxson family.

State Museum Director Michael S. Kennedy has prepared a bill for the Legislature setting the canvas at $9,500 but asking that three experts appraise it.

Aldrich Will Not Make Weekend Trip

Tim Aldrich, the Grizzlies' junior guard and second leading scorer, will not make the trip to Colorado Springs and Ogden this weekend because of a sprained ankle. Aldrich hasn't exactly been a disappointment this season, but a bit more than a 9.6 scoring average was expected from him. Despite this, Tim is the steadiest performer on the team—and probably the best defensive man.

Aldrich has drawn the tough defensive assignments all season long. He held down the two leading scorers of North Dakota and Washington State, Curt Holt and Bryon Vadset. And until he fouled out of the Seattle game, he had kept gunner Eddie Miles off balance.

These feats are all the more impressive because most of the opponents the 6-1 Missoula lad lines up against are three to five inches taller than he is.

The Tips will miss Aldrich, but perhaps junior Harold Peterson can fill in for him. The situation would improve, also, if little Ray Lucien would come out of his scoring slump. And if Steve Lowry's knee heals. The Tips are going to have to score and rebound to beat the Academy. For one of the few times this season, Montana might have a height advantage.

At Training Camp

The two-week long Olympic Ski Training Camp—the first in U.S. history—was held at Vail, Colo., two weeks of this past Christmas vacation. The camp, which met more than a year before the 1964 Winter Olympics open at Innsbruck, Austria, gives this country's best young ski racers the kind of training they need to win against European stars.

Among the 73 racers invited were Mike Buckley and Eleanor Bennett of MSU. Mike, an All-American, is back this quarter skiing for the University team.

Eleanor is out of school this quarter—as she was last winter quarter—racing in meets. She is currently skiing at Mammoth Mountain in California. Her picture, by the way, appeared in the Jan. 14 Sports Illustrated (page 14) in a story lauding the U.S. Ski Association for sponsoring the camp.

Swimmers Against WSU

If you care to do some wishful thinking about the weather, you might wade through the snow to the swimming pool (behind the iceless skating rink) and watch MSU's surprisingly good swim team splash against Washington State as you lean back in your seat and dream of water skiing.

However, for the hardy outdoor types who go in for skiing of the other variety, there is always Ski Weekend this Friday and Saturday at Big Mountain outside of Whitefish. Fun times.

Library Bowlers Ahead In First Half Split Season

The Library team won the first half of the split season in the faculty bowling league by compiling a 25½-13½ won-lost record. Journalism and Business Administration finished in a tie for second.

Members of the Library team are: Robert R. Brock, Ludvig G. Brownman, Royal B. Brunson, Richard C. Froeschner, Lynn B. Graves and Douglas E. Mills.

The final standings for the first half of the season were:

Gonzaga Game To Hand Cubs Big Challenge

"If we ever get ahead, we are going to hide the ball and go home," quipped Freshman Coach Floyd Anderson in reference to Friday's game against the Gonzaga freshmen in Kalispell.

"We expect to have our hands full," Anderson added. "The Gonzaga frosh have met defeat only once this season." That loss was to North Idaho Junior College, who also beat the Cubs last week 78-54.

"I felt we could have showed a little more fire and hustle against North Idaho," the frosh mentor said. "Our rebounding was poor and the two-week layoff seemed to have hurt our shooting."

Anderson was, however, pleased with the play of two members of his squad Saturday. "Jim Griffith showed spark and Ron Harper did a good job," he said. "Both will see a lot of action this week."

Twelve players will go to Kalispell for the game. Expected starters are John Quist, Walt Jensen, Griffith, Stan Johnson, and either Harper or Rocky Black. Others who will make the trip are Don Martella, Jerry Park, Frank Spear, Bill Sullivan, Bob D. Dunham and Casey Cunningham.

In addition to these there are four others practicing with the Cubs. They are transfer students Mike Persha, Gary Peck, Pat Conners, and Ace Brown, who will not become eligible until next year.

The Cubs have a 2-2 record this year with wins over two MSU fraternities and losses to the varsity and NIJC.

Stan Johnson has scored 66 points to lead the team with a 16.5 average. Johnson and John Quist have pulled down 25 rebounds for the lead in that department.

In their four games to date the Cubs have averaged 67.8 points a game but have allowed opponents 69.5. One bright spot in last week's defeat was the free throw shooting of the team. They scored on 18 of 19 attempts.

WARMUP BETTER THAN GAME

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A basketball game was called off Tuesday night because the rim of the basket broke.

The rim snapped during the warmup game at the Landon High School gym. A temporary weld was attempted with equipment from the school's metal shop, but it did not hold and the game was postponed.

Grizzlies Enroute South For Game With Air Force

The Montana State University Grizzlies left by bus this morning for Great Falls where they will board a chartered plane to fly to Colorado Springs, Colo., for tomorrow night's game against the Air Force Academy Falcons.

Saturday the Grizzlies will journey to Ogden, Utah, for a game with the Weber Wildcats. Weather conditions here prevented the team's flying to Colorado Springs.

Tim Aldrich is not with the team on its trip south. He sprained an ankle in practice this week. Center Steve Lowry did go, but his condition remains in doubt.

"Lowry will play some; he is not in perfect condition yet," Coach Ron Nord said yesterday. "It is a day to day proposition as to how well his knee will hold up."

Nord said that he will start Harold Peterson, Ray Lucien, Keith Law, Harold Fullerton, and either Lowry or Rocky Greenfield.

The Tips will run into one of the toughest defensive teams in the nation when they challenge the Air Force Academy. The Falcons have allowed opponents just over 50 points per game this year. Although they have only a 4-7 record, they have lost only one game on their home floor.

Weber has won 10 of its last 12 ball games in its first year of varsity competition.

Proposed Men's Dormitory Will House 300 Students

The new men's dormitory proposed by Pres. Harry K. Newburn at the University Board of Regents meeting Monday in Helena, will house 300 men, according to T. G. Swearingen, MSU director of planning and construction.

According to present plans, the dormitory would be built on space formerly occupied by Jumbo Hall, which is now a parking lot.

Mr. Swearingen said that the dorm will be about the same size as Knowles Hall, the new women's dormitory.

Preliminary plans, drawn by Kalispell architect Richard Taylor, call for a lavatory in each corridor, rather than in each room, saving $50,000. An extra electrical outlet in each room would add nearly $5,000, and building each room 12 by 16 ft., which is one foot wider than proposed, would cost $50,000.

According to Taylor, the size of the individual room is the key to the utility of a residence hall, and that the ideal room should be 11 by 16 ft. to accommodate two students.

He said that an 11 by 16 ft. room would be too small with moveable furniture, but with built-in furniture the space would be ample.

Hungry Rodents Used in Research By Psychologists

Hungry rats are being used in a new psychology research experiment to show how behavior varies with the rate of food they are able to get.

Emery Benson, a psychology graduate assistant, explained that two rats "motivated by a 24-hour hunger-drive" are placed in a Skinner maze. One rat is reinforced by a pellet of food every time it taps a designated lever. The other rat receives a pellet one out of every four times that it taps the lever.

The experiment, based on B. F. Skinner's "Schedule of Reinforcement" (1953), is "related to the variability of responsibility of response as a function of reinforcement," Mr. Benson said.

Mr. Benson is also working with a Gebrand's variability maze which has four reinforcing devices. Problems of control are being considered in this experimentation.

The mazes are self-operating units which record observations without the experimenter being present, Mr. Benson commented. Such apparatus makes mass experimentation possible.

ROYALEERS PLAN HOEDOWN

Royaleers, MSU square dance club, will present its annual square dance mixer Saturday night in the Florence Hotel.

All square dancers are welcome to attend the dance in the North and South Pine rooms of the Florence from 8 to 12 p.m. Admission will be $1.

Legislators Make University Study

Six state legislators became acquainted with the University physical plant and administrative operations yesterday, according to Pres. Harry K. Newburn.

The legislators are members of the Joint Sub-Committee of the University System which is composed of two delegates from the Senate Finance and Claims Committee and three delegates from the House of Representatives Appropriations Committee.

The committee members are: Henry S. Hilbard, chairman, Helena; Sen. Richard Nixon, Chinook; Sen. William R. MacKay, Roscoe; Rep. Leonard D. Regan, Great Falls and Rep. Mark S. Etchart, Glasgow. Rep. Clyde L. Hawks, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee also attended.

The committee plans to visit all six units of the University system to look at particular problems and review bi-annual budgets.

The purpose of the MSU visit, Pres. Newburn said, was to enable the legislators to look at the University heating plant and emergency operations under which it is functioning. The expenditure for heating plant repairs would be $325,000 which is not presently in the University budget.

Pres. Newburn and the legislators ate lunch in the Lodge and later toured the new women's dormitory. They also looked at plans for the proposed men's dorm. The committee visits all state institutions every legislative year, the president said.

Forum Will Hear Publications Panel

MSU's three publications will be the subject of a panel discussion at Montana Forum tomorrow at noon in Territorial Room 1.

Publications Committee Chairman, Marge Dightman, will discuss publications in general. Printer Bowler, editor of the Montana Kaimin, Jake Nelson, editor of the Sentinel, and MaryLou Cushman, editor of Venture, will comprise a panel to explain the responsibility of their publications to the community, according to Bill Wallace, chairman of the group.

Three Man Team to Visit Campus on Geology Tour

A three man geo-study team will visit the geology department today and tomorrow, according to Fred Honkala, chairman of the geology department.

The team will consist of Dr. Roy L. Ingram, University of North Carolina; Dr. Richard V. Dietrich, Virginia Polytechnic Institute; and Dr. Vernon J. Hurst, University of Georgia. These men constitute one of the 10 geo-study teams which visit selected geology departments throughout the United States. The project is a part of a year-long study on behalf of the National Science Foundation.

Mr. Honkala is captain of one of the teams which has investigated geology departments in Southeastern United States. The teams interview both students and faculty members, Honkala said.

University Senior Given Position in Peace Corps

Stanton Bolle, Missoula, a senior in zoology, will join the Peace Corps in Nigeria after his June graduation. He completed an 11-week training course at UCLA on Dec. 13.

William M. Burke, Butte, who completed requirements for graduation at the end of Summer Quarter, 1962, was among the 66 persons training for work in Nigeria. He is now teaching secondary English in the African nation.

According to Vedder M. Gilbert, in charge of the Peace Corps for MSU, 30 Montana students had volunteered for the Corps since September. Seventeen of the volunteers were from MSU, six from MSC, four from Eastern Montana College and three from the Montana School of Mines.

A Peace Corps placement test will be given Jan. 26 at the Post Office, Mr. Gilbert said.

SIGS COMMAND TOP PRICES

A signature by Columbus is worth up to $50,000—but one by Napoleon brings only about $50 on the autograph market.

NASA Authority Will Speak Here

Wilmot N. Hess, head of the theoretical division of National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will speak here Jan. 22 on "The Exploration of Space."

Before joining the NASA, Mr. Hess instructed physics at the University of California. He received his B.A. from Columbia University in 1946, his M.A. from Oberlin College, Ohio, in 1949 and his Ph.D. in physics from the University of California in 1954.

Mr. Hess will be the first speaker in a series of lectures planned for this quarter by the Visiting Lecturers Committee.
